Content Development Executive & Sales Professional

About me

With over 8 years of experience in Sales and Business Development Management, I specialize in both B2B and B2C markets, excelling in building strong client relationships, driving revenue growth, and delivering tailored solutions. My career includes significant contributions to renowned companies like Impro Corp, Development Aid, and Mendel Chemicals, where I currently work as a Content Development Executive. I am proficient in optimizing online presence using tools like Google Search Console and Google Ads, and I'm passionate about creating content that captivates and converts.

In addition to my professional background, I'm an avid learner with a deep interest in languages, martial arts (including Jiu-Jitsu), cycling, and self-development. I thrive in challenging environments and continuously seek new ways to grow both personally and professionally. My natural curiosity, quick learning ability, and dedication make me a versatile professional eager to contribute to the long-term success of any organization. I am currently seeking a stable, growth-oriented position where I can continue to leverage my diverse skill set and drive meaningful results.
